Be a part of the best bluegrass banjo event in the world! Join Sonny Osborne and some of the world's greatest players for an unforgettable weekend of group instruction, concerts, jamming and FUN designed for all levels of players, from beginners with one year of playing experience to advanced pickers – and absolutely everyone in between!

Why are we the best? Our emphasis is on music, friendship, fun and great food in a beautiful country setting near Nashville at the height of the fall foliage season. We limit attendance to around 55 students at the NashCamp Banjo Camp. This allows for smaller group classes and creates a relaxed, practical and fun learning environment that allows for close interaction with our all-star lineup of teachers. We also have the best food of any banjo camp in the world, catered by the Mad Platter, a well-known Nashville restaurant, comfortable accommodations and, of course, SONNY OSBORNE!

You'll enjoy a weekend immersion experience where everyone around you is just as excited about playing banjo as you are! You'll be grouped with players at your ability level and you'll also get to play in jams (including slow jams for beginners) with some of Nashville's best pickers there to help you to sound your best.

Class sessions cover everything from Scruggs to melodic and single-string styles, working up solos, how to survive a jam, repertoire, vocal harmonies and much more. Our teachers will explain the secrets of their own styles and demonstrate their most popular tunes. Legendary banjo builder Frank Neat will be on hand to get your banjo sounding its best.

Early registration is recommended as the camp often sells out. Camp begins at noon Friday with lunch and ends around 3 p.m. on Sunday. Shuttle service is available from the Nashville airport. $675 tuition includes all activities, meals and lodging. Off site attendees are welcomed for $575.
