There was a lofty ship, and she set out to sea
 The name of the ship was the Golden Vanity
 As she sailed upon the lowland
 As she sailed upon the lowland sea

She had not been out, but two weeks or three
 When she was overtaken by a Spanish piratee
 As she sailed....

We had onboard us, a little cabin boy
 Who said "what will you give me if I will them destroy"
 If I sink them in the lowland...

The man that them destroys, the captain replied
 500 pounds, and my daughter for his bride
 If he sinks them in the lowland.....

The boy bared his breast, and plunged into the tide
 He swam up along side of that rascal pirate's side
 As she...

He stole upon the deck, and quickly went below
 With his auger drill, he made the water flow
 And he sank her in the...

He swam back to the ship, and he beat against the side
 Crying 'Captain pick me up, for I'm drowning in the tide'
 And I'm sinkin' in the lowland....

We hauled him quickly up, but on the deck he died
 We sewed him in his hammock and dropped him in the tide
 As we sailed upon...

Away flew the ship from the north a-countree
 Farewell, farewell, to the Golden Vanity
 As she sailed...
